Power Systems Introduces New Training Products and Strength Equipment for 2009

Knoxville, TN – November 6, 2008 – Award-winning equipment provider Power Systems Inc. is introducing more than 300 items to its product line in its newly released 2009 catalogs.

Power Systems expanded its comprehensive catalog to 112 pages to offer even more fitness equipment, strength accessories, and educational products than before and packed its new sports performance professionals edition with 72 pages of both traditional and innovative sports training products. In addition to introducing hundreds of new training products this year, Power Systems has unveiled its own line of strength training equipment. The new equipment line is featured in a special strength equipment insert that shows plated-loaded, free weight, and selectorized equipment as well as customized equipment for women and kids.

Power Systems provide coaches, athletes, and fitness experts with a wide assortment of quality sports and fitness training equipment. Free catalogs are available by calling Power Systems at 1-800-321-6975 or by making a request online at www.power-systems.com.
